

Criminal Defense

Cohen and Wolf's Criminal Defense Law Group represents individuals charged with or involved in a broad spectrum of crimes. Attorneys in the Group regularly appear in state criminal courts, as well as state juvenile courts, throughout Connecticut. Several of the attorneys in the Group are former state prosecutors.

The Group is committed to representing our clients to the fullest extent possible under the law, and to guiding our clients through a complex and confusing system. Our attorneys understand that our clients may be in difficult situations, and need guidance and understanding throughout the process. We represent clients for all types of crimes, including assaults, driving under the influence, possession of drugs, criminal mischief and reckless driving, as well as all motor vehicle offenses.

The attorneys in the Criminal Law Group are also members of the firm's Litigation, Personal Injury and/or Family Law Groups.
