Robyn represents public, private and emerging companies and individuals on complex business transactions and employment matters. In her transactional practice, Robyn regularly assists clients with structuring, negotiating and closing commercial transactions, ranging from commercial loans and corporate mergers and acquisitions, to commercial real estate purchases, sales and leasing. Robyn also provides guidance to employers in the drafting and implementation of employee policies and procedures, employment agreements, non-compete agreements, and independent contractor arrangements.

Practical and thoughtful, Robyn recognizes the importance of a thorough understanding her clients' businesses and their needs. She works hand-in-hand with clients to develop and deliver innovative solutions that achieve business objectives while balancing legal risks. As a result of the diverse range of clients and matters she manages, Robyn has in-depth understanding of the implications of each deal on various aspects of the business she represents, including employment matters, business succession issues and both securing and protecting intellectual property.

Robyn currently serves as the Chair of the firm's Recruitment Committee.
