Volunteer Day With Habitat for Humanity

06.12.2018

Habitat for Humanity of Coastal Fairfield County builds communities and improves lives by eliminating substandard housing and creating home ownership possibilities for families of low income. Habitat CFC has a proud 32-year history and well-earned reputation for success throughout the region. We are a developer with a commitment to "green" construction, a family service agency, non-profit financial institution, community advocate and provider of over 8,000 volunteer opportunities each year. Habitat CFC transforms abandoned properties into homes for tax-paying, contributing community members. Since 1985 Habitat CFC has built over 200 homes and has helped over 1,000 family members in Fairfield County.
